Contemporary dance
and sculpture project
Duet dance - sculpture

▶▶ ABOUT THE PROJECT

The encounter between French sculptor Denis Tricot and Croatian contemporary dancer Zrinka Šimičić on the project C'est loin of the dance company Cie des prairies in Istanbul during the spring of 2002 resulted in the continued collaboration of these two artists. Their project researches the relation of dance art and sculpture and has so far been performed in Turkey, France and Croatia.

In the process of developing, the project is open to include other artists who could contribute with their creative potential (musicians, etc.). The project can be performed in both closed and open spaces.

▶▶ ABOUT

Duet dance - sculpture

choreography: Zrinka Šimičić
number of performers: 2

As the sculptor moves through the space with three metre long wooden arches, gradually building a construction (sculpture), and moving in a peculiar way due to the size of arches, the dancer improvises next to and under the arches, sometimes producing arch-like movements, thus following the shape of the sculpture, sometimes reflecting a sudden movement of the sculptor, and at other times, dancing her own dance.

▶▶ REVIEW EXTRACT

...They (the performers) emphasize the importance of not imposing one art over the other, movement over sculpture and vice versa, but they try to maintain the equal positions...and they manage to do so...
